Bandit Crazy By Boy's Death Turns To Fiend

Mexico City Newspaper Gives Details of Massacre Near Durango.

That his little boy, a captive of a Carranza train guard, was killed in the dynamite of a National railway train between Cuernavaca and the city of Durango in the state of Durango, appears to have been the cause of the massacre by the rebel bandit Carranza on September 12, according to the Mexico City newspaper. The boy, a son of a prominent Durango family, was taken aboard the train by Carranza's men, and was killed by a bullet from the train. The boy's death was a tragedy for the Carranza family, and the Carranza men were accused of the crime.

V. CARRANZA IS CALLED TRAITOR

Villa Says Mexican President Gained Power by Aid of Wilson Alone.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—Francisco Villa, "General in Chief" of the revolutionary forces in Mexico, in a manifesto for the nation, a copy of which has just reached Washington, called Carranza a traitor. Villa said that Carranza had gained power by the aid of the United States, and that he was a traitor to the Mexican people. Villa's manifesto was a direct challenge to Carranza's government, and it was expected to cause a major crisis in Mexico.
